

Dayton to host 2018 Regional Neighborhood Network Conference

October 4-6, Dayton Convention Center

Release Date: Wednesday, August 8, 2018

Contact: Ken Marcellus, Dept. of Planning and Community Development, 937-333-7381

Hundreds of community leaders from throughout a five-state region will convene in Dayton October 4 through 6 at the Dayton Convention Center for the annual Regional Neighborhood Network Conference, hosted by the Dayton Department of Planning and Community Development.

The annual event occurs in one of 20 or more cities in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee and brings together community and business leaders, government officials and volunteers to exchange ideas and information to help transform communities.

Conference speakers will include University of Dayton President Eric Spina.

"Rebirth and renewal are at work in Dayton, in our neighborhoods and our downtown" said Mayor Nan Whaley. "We are inviting anyone committed to community revitalization to join in the conversation, share their experience, and benefit their own community through awareness gained at RNNC 2018."

For more information and registration, visit rnnconference.com. Dayton last hosted RNNC in 2010.

2018
RNNC Dayton
October 4-6

Education + Wealth + Leadership + Neighborhoods

#

