'Lights in Flight,' the region's most spectacular fireworks display, returns to downtown Dayton's RiverScape MetroPark on Wednesday, July 3, with a festival featuring music, food and family fun. Admission is free; the event is presented by Dayton's Department of Recreation and Youth Services.

The celebration begins at 5 p.m., and fireworks sponsored by Marion's Piazza will light the sky over downtown Dayton at 10 p.m. Channel 999 FM will broadcast a fireworks-synchronized music soundtrack.

The festival's entertainment lineup:

6 p.m.: Dayton Jazz Collection featuring Kelli Campbell

7 p.m.: Brass Tracks Band

8 p.m.: D-Funk Band

Emcee: David Matthews, with DJ SKNO

Major sponsorship is also provided by Five Rivers MetroParks, with support from Dayton Water, USI and Channel 999.

Traffic note: The North Main Street bridge will be open for traffic, but with only one lane open for each direction because of construction, the Dayton Police Dept. advises visitors to approach and depart downtown from alternative routes.
