The Dayton Human Relations Council, in partnership with The Neon and the Ohio Justice Policy Center, will host a special screening of "Clemency."

Directed by former Wright State University film professor Chinonye Chukwu and starring acclaimed actor Alfre Woodard, "Clemency" is the story of a prison warden who struggles with the personal consequences of carrying out prisoner executions. The film earned the grand jury prize at the Sundance Film Festival.

The screening will be presented at The Neon, 30 E. Fifth St., on Thursday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p.m. A $3 discount is available on the $10 admission by mentioning the Human Relations Council at the box office.

Film viewers may participate in a discussion following the screening led by Kevin Werner, policy director for the Ohio Justice and Policy Center.

For more information, call the Human Relations Council at 937-333-1403.
